

Allard School of Law – Continuing Student Awards 2020/2021

Eligibility

1. You are a continuing student in the UBC Juris Doctor degree program.
2. You meet the terms for awards eligibility set out in UBC's Regulations Governing University Awards. Please read these Regulations carefully as they contain rules which may affect your eligibility to earn or keep an award.
3. You meet the criteria of one or more of the awards set out herein.
4. Note for awards where academic merit is the sole criteria, or which list academic excellence or academic achievement as a key criterion, or which are renewable, the following requirements apply. You will:
 - have completed at least 24 credits in the 2019W session (*);
 - have achieved an average of at least 75% (with no failed or incomplete courses) in the 2019W session; and
 - register in at least 24 credits in the 2020W session.
5. For awards which rely on any combination of academic and non-academic merit, the minimum GPA credit restriction requirements do not apply. Examples of non-academic merits are leadership, community involvement, varsity athletics, financial need etc.
 - Awards which do not require a minimum of 75% average and enrolment in 24 credits in the 2019W session are indicated in this awards application by the notation "Non-Academic Award".

The determination of whether an award is academic or non-academic is made by Enrolment Services.

*In some cases, you can be eligible for an academic merit award with a reduced credit load). To be given consideration, submit the following with your application:

- a letter that describes your situation; or
- if you are a student who is taking a reduced course load at the recommendation of the Centre for Accessibility you should include a note from your Accessibility Advisor to this effect.

In addition, if you believe you weren't able to achieve an average of 75 % in at least 24 credits as a result of withdrawn course(s) due to the negative impacts of the COVID-19 crisis and still want to be considered for academic merit awards, please include a brief explanation that describes your situation with your application. An exception may be granted on a case-by-case basis.

Section B:

Award List

The following award descriptions identify the criteria against which all applications will be reviewed. The information contained in the descriptions is accurate at publication time, but is subject to change. Please note that monetary amounts are tentative and may not be confirmed until Fall 2020. The awards with  are not yet confirmed for 2020; students should apply pending final determination.

Please read the descriptions carefully and mark a check (✓) in the box next to the awards for which you feel you may be eligible.

Awards are divided into the following categories:

- (1) Financial Need *Please also review category (4) for Financial Need Awards with Specific Criteria.
- (2) Athletic Achievement
- (3) General Awards
- (4) Awards with Specific Criteria
- (5) Indigenous Legal Studies Awards

Note re: Class Rank:

Some award descriptions state that a student must rank academically within the top 10% of their class. The Allard School of Law does not release rankings. Students considering whether they should apply for such an award should review the 2019-2020 Grade Distribution Letter available on the Allard School of Law website for guidance on their academic standing. A student who, after reviewing the Grade Distribution Letter, is in doubt about whether or not they are in the top 10%, is encouraged to apply rather than eliminating themselves from consideration.

Financial Need

The following awards include financial need as a required or optional criterion. If you apply for an award where either (i) financial need is a required criterion of the award, or (ii) you are relying on the financial need criterion to meet award eligibility, then you must complete the Section D: Financial Assessment part of this Application.

5873 *Hilda Janzen Memorial Award in Feminist Legal Studies  Non-Academic Award

An annual award of $18,000 is offered by Sonya Wall in memory of Hilda Janzen. The award is for a student in any year of the UBC Law JD Program, including first year, who has achieved good academic standing, has demonstrated leadership and community involvement in feminist issues, and faces challenges, financial or systemic, in accessing or continuing legal education. This award has been established to honour a woman who devoted her life to the advancement of women in professional fields. Hilda Janzen lived her belief that women could achieve their goals through education. Born in the early years of the Great Depression, a child of Mennonite farmers, Ms. Janzen completed normal school in Vancouver before spending a year travelling Europe and Asia. She earned a Bachelor of Arts degree in German and English at UBC and became a teacher whose passion for language, libraries and theatre touched many students’ lives. Her own life was cut short at the age of 49 by a battle with cancer. This award honours the incredible impact Ms. Janzen had on her community and reflects the love and esteem of her friends and family. A student who has held the Hilda Janzen Memorial Award in one academic year may apply for the award in subsequent years.

Applicants for this award must:

- (1) Complete the Section D. Financial Assessment part of this Application.
- (2) Provide the contact information for two persons who can speak to your eligibility for this award, preferably your involvement in feminist issues:
 - a. _____
 - _____
 - b. _____
 - _____
- (3) Describe below (in 1000 words or less) how you meet the criteria for the award. The awards committee will consider academic achievement; demonstrated leadership and community involvement in feminist and/or feminist legal issues; and any financial or systemic challenges in accessing or continuing a legal education. Please highlight any systemic or financial barriers you face beyond the high cost of legal education. Please address each of these criteria.
