

Virtual Book Launch

Thursday, Sept. 17th

5:30-6:30 pm (Eastern)

REGISTER HERE

Join us as we celebrate the publication of Predatory Lending and the Destruction of the African-American Dream (Cambridge University Press) by law professors Janis Sarra and Cheryl L. Wade.

Janis Sarra and Cheryl L. Wade

The book is essential reading for anyone who wants to understand how systemic anti-black racism has caused and continues to cause the racial wealth gap between black and white Americans. It provides cogent insight in the aftermath of the ongoing global protests against institutional racism and is a crucial contribution to the discourse about why black (economic) lives matter.

With a distinguished panel, the authors will lead a conversation about twenty-first century economic exploitation through predatory lending practices that intentionally target African Americans.

Cheryl L. Wade,
Dean Harold F.
McNiece Professor
of Law, St. John's
School of Law

Taunya Lovell
Banks,
Jacob A. France
Professor of Equality and Jurisprudence,
University of Maryland Law

Janis Sarra,
Professor of Law,
University of British Columbia Law,
Canada

Alice A.
Nicholson,
Esq., New York
State Foreclosure
Defense Bar

Kellye Y. Testy,
Professor of Law,
University of Washington School
of Law