

PETER A. ALLARD SCHOOL OF LAW

THE UNIVERSITY OF BRITISH COLUMBIA

Admission FOR SEPTEMBER 2022

Dear Prospective Applicant:

Welcome to the Peter A. Allard School of Law admission process. We are pleased that you are considering our school for your legal education and hope to make the application process as simple as possible. For complete information about Peter A. Allard Law, the programs we offer, and admissions requirements, please check our website at allard.ubc.ca.

This package of admission materials includes our application form. Please be sure to complete the form carefully and thoroughly so that we may give your application full and fair consideration. At the end of the form is a checklist to help ensure that your application is complete. Submitting your application directly online at our website is preferred, as this will enable us to process your application more efficiently and quickly. If you have questions, our admissions staff can be reached by phone at (604) 822-6303, or by email, admissions@allard.ubc.ca.

Admissions Categories

There are several admissions categories that lead to the completion of a J.D. degree from Peter A. Allard School of Law: General, Discretionary, Indigenous, Transfer and Advanced Standing. There is also one nondegree category: Visiting (Letter of Permission). Be sure to indicate on your application form the category under which you are applying.

Admissions Deadline

The deadline for applications to the General, Discretionary and Indigenous categories is December 1, 2021. (Applications sent by postal service must be postmarked by this date.) Evaluation of your application will begin as soon as we have received all of your supporting documents (due December 1, 2021) and LSAT score.

The Peter A. Allard School of Law Admissions Committee, consisting of faculty members and student representatives, oversees admission to the Allard School of Law. Typically there are approximately 1,500 applications for the approximately 200 available places in the first year of the J.D. program. Offers will be made commencing in December to candidates whose files are complete and who surpass the standards of our General Admissions category. The majority of our General Admissions offers are sent out in the months of January through April. Applicants in the Indigenous Admissions category can expect to hear from us by the end of March 2022, while offers to Discretionary Admissions applicants are generally made by the end of May. We will make our best effort to notify all applicants of their status by the end of May.

Personal Statement

You are required to submit a personal statement with your application. For details, please see the Application Procedures on page 5.

LSAT

You are required to write the Law School Admissions Test (LSAT). Detailed information regarding LSAT registration, sample tests, as well as admissions policies for North American law schools can be found online at www.lsac.org.

The latest LSAT that will be considered for this admissions cycle is the January 2022 LSAT. We strongly encourage applicants to take the LSAT prior to the January test date. An applicant who wishes to rely on the January LSAT score may diminish his/her chance of gaining admission due to the delayed review of their file and the possibility that there may no longer be positions available in the upcoming entry class. Applications from candidates who write the January LSAT will not be considered complete and will not be reviewed until all elements, including the January LSAT score, are received. After the complete file is reviewed, if it is considered competitive with other applicants for a place in the upcoming entry class and if a position is still available, the applicant may either be admitted or placed on a wait list. LSAT scores are valid for five years.

Transcripts

You must make arrangements with every post-secondary institution you have attended or are attending, with the exception of UBC (for which we will access your records electronically), to have official transcripts sent directly to Peter A. Allard School of Law. Please ensure that a current official transcript is submitted at the time of your application. A final official transcript must be received upon completion of your studies. Transcripts in languages other than English must be evaluated by an accredited evaluation service.

Combined Degree Programs

If you are applying to the combined J.D./M.B.A. degree program, you must indicate your intent to do so on your application form. You must also apply separately to the M.B.A. program through the Sauder School of Business, sauder.ubc.ca.

Financial Assistance

A substantial number of bursaries are available to Allard Law students. General bursary applications for students are available in August 2022. Please see allard.ubc.ca/programs/juris-doctor-jd-program/costs-and-funding/bursary-program for details. If you have any questions, please contact an Enrolment Services Advisor at es.lawsupport@ubc.ca.

All accepted applicants are considered for entrance scholarships and recipients will be notified as soon as possible. Please check our website at allard.ubc.ca/programs/juris-doctor-jd-program/costs-and-funding/scholarships-awards.

The Peter A. Allard School of Law uses an online status checking system. You will be contacted with instructions on how to access this system after we have processed your application.

Again, please contact us if you have any questions. Our job is to make your application to the Peter A. Allard School of Law as straightforward as possible.

Sincerely,
THE ADMISSIONS TEAM

Personal Statement

Important: The structure of the personal statement has changed recently for applicants under the General category. Please see the following page for detailed instructions. Applicants under the Discretionary, Indigenous, Letter of Permission and Advanced Standing categories are required to submit a personal statement of no more than three pages (approximately 1500 words) with this application. Personal statements are used in conjunction with letters of reference, academic performance and LSAT scores to assess admissibility and to evaluate candidates for entrance scholarships.

Generally, the purpose of the personal statement is to provide the Admissions Committee with any information an applicant considers relevant to the consideration of her or his application. The Admissions Committee would like to see several kinds of information from you in order to make its decision. First, if your academic performance in some limited period was affected by a short-term medical condition or other circumstances, information about this should be provided, along with supporting documentation. Second, a personal statement should also highlight those aspects of your personal history that enhance your application. For example, a personal statement should set out the relevant information about: academically related extra-curricular activities, community involvement, work (both paid and volunteer) experience, parental or caregiver responsibilities, and relevant personal characteristics and attributes. And lastly, the Admissions Committee is particularly interested in you telling us why you want to study law, what makes you well-suited to the study of law (e.g., the particular skills, interests and/or experiences you have), and what contributions you think you would make to the Peter A. Allard School of Law.
